DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. The claims are generally narrative and indefinite, failing to conform with current U.S. practice. They appear to be a literal translation into English from a foreign document and are replete with grammatical and idiomatic errors.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wang et al in view of Dalebout et al.

5. The claims are difficult to understand, so as best and as broadly understood by the examiner:

Wang et al discloses a foldaway treadmill having a pair of vertical posts on a base frame 20, a pneumatic cylinder 44.

Dalebout et al discloses a treadmill having , as shown in figure 7 a cylinder having oil fluid chambers 104 and air chambers 102 with passage groove therein to provide buffering action during use.

In view of Dalebout et al, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to substitute a dual chambered pneumatic-hydraulic cylinder for the Wang et al cylinder as an alternative damping means for folding the Wang et al treadmill.

As to claims 3 and 6, wheels are well recognized in the treadmill art, as exemplified by Dalebout et al; therefore, their inclusion in the Wang et al device would be obvious for support and transportation purposes.

As to claim 6, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to provide left and right cylinders and accessories for safety and symmetry of force vectors during use. Note Wang's switch handles and fixing tips 84 which would comprise left and right pairs for each side of the frame.

As to claim 4, drive means are well recognized in the treadmill art, as exemplified by Dalebout et al; therefore, its inclusion in the Wang et al device would be obvious for operating the treadmill belt.

6. Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wang et al in view of Dalebout et al as applied to claim 4 above, and further in view of Del Mar. Del Mar teaches the use of a shock-proof pad located on the frame to lessen shock from the user platform. Given this teaching, it would have been obvious to provide a shock absorbing pad on the Wang et al, modified supra, treadmill, for lessening shock form the user platform.
